This volume discusses a broad range of themes and methodological issues around images, photography, and film. It is about sharing a fascination about the visual history of education and how images became the most influential circulating media within the field of education, on local, regional, national, and international levels. Within this volume, images are primarily analyzed as presenters, mediators, and means of observation. Images are seen as mobile, reproducible media which play an active role within the public and educational sphere. They are means of observation and storytelling; they shape identities by presenting models of how we should act in and perceive the world. They circulate through different contexts and media, all of which impacts their meanings.

Translating Apollinaire delves into Apollinaire's poetry and poetics through the challenges and invitations it offers to the process of translation. Besides providing a new appraisal of Apollinaire, the most significant French poet of WWI, Translating Apollinaire aims to put the ordinary reader at the centre of the translational project. It proposes that translation's primary task is to capture the responses of the reader to the poetic text and to find ways of writing those responses into the act of translation. Every reader is invited to translate and to translate with a creativity appropriate to the complexity of their own reading experiences. Throughout, Scott himself consistently uses the creative resource of photography and more particularly photographic fragments as a cross-media language used to help capture the activity of the reading consciousness.
